

BARRY FAWCETT

Photographic Artist

From an early start in high school with an old 35mm camera, to his current use of modern digital SLR cameras and the time to pursue his passion for photography in retirement, Barry has been building his skills and portfolio for many years. He credits along the way the opportunity to experiment in the Queen's University dark room as yearbook photo editor and more recently, many practical workshops with professional Masterfile photographer Garry Black including memorable photographic trips to Southern Africa, Greece and Normandy, France.

Currently Barry is one of the founding member artists and Gallery Director at ArtScene Spencerville, an art gallery in Spencerville Ontario.

Artist's Statement

“I draw much of my inspiration from the flora, fauna and patterns in nature whether close to home or in far away places. I am fascinated by the play of light and shadow, patterns and shapes in the physical world, and the character revealed in the faces of people I meet.”
